

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to processes and devices for cell testing, particularly cell assays or cell test arrangements, their production, and processes for their use. The invention further relates to application of cell traces on substrate surfaces.